Care by Stella McCartney, a truly organic product responds to the needs of people who seek a guarantee of quality and security to those of you who care about the world we live in. The Care by Stella McCartney range meets these requirements and has been subject to a very strict ethical charter. To create an organic product as complex as a skincare range, plant extracts used in the composition must come from organic crops, where the soil has been prepared over a three year period. The methods of cultivation are strictly regulated to ensure that the environment is protected. Even the alcohol, which is essential to protect and preserve the organic ingredients and the formula, is plant derivative.

Organic farming favours renewable resources and recycling and within the process, any nutrients found
