

Conventional, non-organic chocolate and flowers are most often a product of exploited labor, in many cases children and young women from Africa and Latin America. Non-organic cocoa beans and commercial flowers are doused with chemical fertilizers, pesticides, herbicides, and fungicides. Non-organic flowers are the most toxic and heavily-sprayed agricultural crops on Earth. The super profits of the chocolate and flower giants—Nestle, M&M, Dole, ADM, Cargill, and Wal-Mart—are directly related to the exploitation of farm workers and small farmers. This is why I've unchained my heart for you with a gift that is Fair Made, fairly-traded, and certified organic.

For more information, visit www.OrganicConsumers.org

*This Valentine's gift is Fair Made and organic.
No worries about slave labor chocolate or flowers.
No toxic pesticides poisoning workers and contaminating the Earth. Just love.*

