

Calling All Rebels

Listen Please

Now is the time to educate, search out new friends and allies, even in the most unlikely places, improve our health, strengthen our resolve, and prepare for any eventuality. A new 21st Century populist counter-culture and politics, potentially strong enough to overturn business as usual, is starting to emerge. We literally have no choice but to build a new Republic and a new system of participatory democracy on the ruins of the old.

This is what our new corps of Resistance and Regeneration will look like: farmers and consumers, young and old, rural and urban, whites and non-whites, middle class, working class, immigrants, low-income communities, dropouts from the affluent class, a rainbow of dissidents and rebels from all genders, religions, and spiritual belief. We are the Volunteers of America and planet Earth. Fighting for freedom and democracy. Or else there is no future.

Read more: <https://orgcns.org/3SIMujU>

A Letter to Liberals

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. has just written a powerful essay, entitled “A Letter to Liberals.” In his open letter RFK Jr., demolishes the “Lockdown Liberal” propaganda narrative on the origins, nature, virulence, prevention, and treatment of COVID-19. Kennedy pleads with the millions of well-meaning but often psychologically panicked and deranged Democrats to open their minds to scientific facts and our inalienable and absolutely essential Constitutional liberties and rights. He eloquently details the hazards of experimental, profit-at-any-cost vaccines, mandates, lockdowns, medical tyranny, and 21st Century Totalitarianism, hiding behind the façade of modern science, bogus fact-checking, and a so-called Great Reset or Fourth Industrial Revolution.

Read more: <https://orgcns.org/3AIPjlo>

Can Small-Scale Farmers Feed the World?

From A Growing Culture: “I—like many others—believed for a long time that industrial agriculture [is] a necessary evil, an unfortunate requirement given how many people now live on the planet. Once I learned about the importance of small-scale farming for biodiversity and cultural preservation, I still wondered whether these smaller farms would be able to “feed the world...” There is ongoing controversy about exactly what percentage of the world’s food is produced by small-scale and peasant farmers...If it turns out that small-scale agriculture does, in fact, feed the majority of the world, then that would be a huge blow to the industrial agricultural system, given its widespread environmental and social harms. In recent years, researchers have attempted to answer this question. But a couple of key studies have emerged, pointing us in the wrong direction, and creating dire consequences for policy-making. Let’s dive in.

Read more: <https://orgcns.org/3AfcyvR>

What You Need to Know About Plant-Based (Lab-Produced) Meats

Roberta Louis interviews nutritionist Sara Keough for Pottenger.org:

Roberta: Why is there so much consumer interest in these products?

Sara: When we look at the research surveys that have been done on consumer interest in plant-based meats, it’s very clear that health is a big motivator. There’s a lot of marketing behind these products in promoting the idea that there is a health benefit in moving away from meat, eggs, and dairy and adopting a more plant-based diet. But unfortunately, consumers are buying into a lie and what I consider to be very powerful propaganda.

Read more: <https://orgcns.org/3C2thUg>

Biowarfare and the Theft of Billions

Mercola.com reports:

“For years, Ukraine was recognized as one of the most, if not ‘the’ most corrupt nation in Europe. It held on to that reputation all the way up to the day Russia invaded it, at which point media worldwide suddenly started rewriting history. A few days after ringing up several top officials, Zelensky also issued a blacklist of American “pro-Russian propagandists,” which includes Sen. Rand Paul, R-Ky, former Rep. Tulsi Gabbard, D-Hawaii, and independent journalist Glenn Greenwald.

After receiving billions of dollars from American taxpayers, Zelensky now wants to silence American politicians and journalists who question government’s use of funds and America’s continued involvement in the Ukraine conflict — a move that raises questions about Ukraine being a bastion of democracy and freedom. U.S. aid to Ukraine may be a corrupt scheme to steal taxpayer funds, launder the money through Ukraine, and then funnel the money back into the hands of the transnational security elite.

Read more: <https://orgcns.org/3PmoSPh>

True Carbon Farming Requires Deep Roots—in the Soil and in Community

Liz Carlisle reports:

“Carbon farming has burst into the mainstream over the past decade...

The notion that everything we do has a carbon benefit or cost has been an effective way to raise awareness of our impact on climate. But as this narrative is translated into federal agriculture policy and public funds are committed toward carbon programs, there’s the danger of too narrow a focus — bean counting one microscopic element rather than supporting healthy farm ecosystems.”

Read more: <https://orgcns.org/3SXawrE>

WRITTEN BY RONNIE CUMMINS AND ALEXIS BADEN-MAYER

• SUBSCRIBE: <https://orgcns.org/SUBSCRIBE> • DONATE: <https://orgcns.org/DONATE> •