Why Not Shop at Wal-Mart?

Low Wages:
Wal-Mart’s average full-time pay lands a four-person family in poverty.
   - Center for Strategic Research, AFL-CIO; Business Week, 10/6/03

No Wages:
Thousands of documented cases charge that Wal-Mart has forced hundreds of thousands of workers to work “off the clock.”
   - US Securities and Exchange Commission

Poor Benefits:
Because of long waiting periods for eligibility and high costs, less than 50 percent of Wal-Mart’s workers are covered by the company’s health plan. Wal-Mart deliberately works employees less than 32 hours a week so they won’t be eligible for health coverage.

Taxpayer Burdens:
Wal-Mart’s low wages and poor benefits force many workers to rely on public aid. Taxpayers spend about $420,750 per year on public aid programs for each Wal-Mart store with 200 workers because Wal-Mart workers often can’t afford health insurance or food for their children.

Discrimination:
Women at Wal-Mart earn an average of $5,000 less a year than men for doing the same jobs. Some 1.6 million women are eligible to join a class-action lawsuit charging Wal-Mart with discrimination. Wal-Mart also has had to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to workers across the company who were subject to race discrimination.

Destroying US Jobs:
By squeezing them for impossibly low prices, Wal-Mart forces its suppliers to move operations and jobs to low-wage countries such as China. In 2004 alone, Wal-Mart purchased $18 billion worth of Chinese goods.

Union Busting:
Wal-Mart fights to keep wages and benefits low by battling workers’ attempts to form unions. The company announced February 9 it is closing a Quebec store rather than negotiate with workers who formed a union there.

Child Labor:
Wal-Mart recently agreed to pay $135,540 to settle federal charges that it broke child labor laws by having teenage workers use hazardous equipment such as a chain saw, paper bailers and fork lifts.
   - The New York Times, 2/12/05

Food Monopoly:
Wal-Mart and other mega-chains get 68 cents of every food dollar spent in the United States, with 30 cents going to marketing, transportation & packaging. Farmers get two cents of every food dollar. For every one Supercenter that will open, two supermarkets will close. Since 1992, the supermarket industry has experienced a net loss of 13,500 stores.
   - Fickes, Michael. “Big Boxers have big expansion plans.” Retail Traffic, 1/12/02

Environmental Criminal:
In October 2004, the United States sued Wal-Mart for violating the Clean Water Act in nine states, calling for penalties of over $3 million and changes to Wal-Mart building codes.

Global Superpower:
Of the 100 most powerful economies in the world, Wal-Mart ranks #19
